CAIRO, Nov. 29.—All British preparations for perhaps the decisive and final battle of the Libyan campaign were reported complete today as the British widened the wedge driven by New Zealand forces in the Axis lines at Ed Duda, south of Tobruk.

The New Zealanders who fought their way to Ed Duda and there formed a junction with forces of the British garrison from Tobruk were declared to have staged a continuous non-stop advance that covered a period of eight hours.

Reprisals Against Rostov Population Ordered By Nazis

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
BERLIN, Nov. 29.—Nazi occupational troops in strategic Rostov-on-Don, gateway to the Caucasus, have been ordered to evacuate the interior of the city to launch "necessary reprisals" against the population, the high command announced today.

A German communique said: "Withdrawal of occupation forces from the center of Rostov was ordered for the purpose of carrying out recklessly the necessary reprisals against the population, which contrary to international law participated in the fighting in the area of the rear of the German troops."

The bulletin said German forces attacked Moscow defenses made "further progress" and added: "Bloody Losses"

"Near Rostov and in the Donetz basin the enemy again suffered severe bloody losses in renewed attacks, which were carried out recklessly by strong forces."

The high command also said that renewed Red army attempts to break through the ring around Leningrad were repulsed.

In north Africa, it was claimed, Axis forces were engaging in concentric attacks against strong British forces which "again advanced toward Tobruk from the southeast."

German planes, the bulletin declared, effectively bombed railway establishments near Sidi Barrani.

Asked whether the British had established connection with the Tobruk garrison, a military spokesman in Berlin said: "Not yet."

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 29.—The new Penn Night Club on Route 88, near the main entrance to South Park went up in flames today. Loss, as-sessed by the owner, estimated damage at $150,000, but firemen were expected to peg the loss at a lower figure.

A dozen persons, including the owner, and six or seven entertainers, escaped from the blazing building with their lives and little else. More than 1,000 spectators watched firemen struggling against the flames, which swept through the tinder-dry walls like so much kindling.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Four major anti-strike bills emerged today from the intense competition of rival senate and house groups, with both senate and house likely to be considering labor legislation next week.

Jealousy between committees and sharp differences of opinion over the best means of curbing defense strikes produced the extraordinary situation, with the question of anti-strike legislation likely to be settled only after spectacular, free-for-all floor fights in both bodies.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Just four months after President Roosevelt sent a special message to Congress asking it to "act speedily" to prevent inflation, a drastically emasculated price control bill was before the Senate today.

And in the upper House there were no indications that the Senate would heed the President's request for speed any more than the House. Officials of the banking committee said no arrangements for hearings had been made yet, and leaders said the measure would not be on the floor before January 1, at the earliest.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—British submarines operating in the Arctic ocean have sunk at least eight German troop transports and supply ships, the Admiralty announced today.

A number of their ships were seriously damaged, it was stated. The submarine Tigris was credited with sinking five ships and seriously damaging a sixth. Another vessel was attacked and damaged by gunfire, it was declared. Two of the ships were said to have been sunk after an attack on a heavily escorted three-ship convoy.

The enemy boats were said to be troop transports and supply ships bringing supplies and reinforcements to German troops fighting on the Murmansk front.

More Jap Forces Reach Indo-China

Believe Japanese About To Attack

Large Part Of Japanese Reinforcements Made Up Of Aircraft

THAILAND MAY BE WAR CENTER

(International News Service)
LONDON, Nov. 29.—A Reuters (British) dispatch from Singapore said today that it was learned more Japanese reinforcements have landed in French Indo-China during the past few days.

According to Reuters, arrival of these troops caused American Secretary of State Cordell Hull to interrupt his Washington talks with the Japanese representatives, special Envoy Saburo Kurosu and Ambassador Kichisaburo Nomura.

The dispatch said the main part of the Japanese reinforcements consisted of aircraft, bringing Japanese aerial strength in Indo-China to 500 machines.

Units Disembark
Infantry and artillery units also were reported to have disembarked recently at Saigon, but Reuters said it was doubted whether the actual number of Japanese troops in Indo-China is more than 50,000 or 60,000.

According to the dispatch, well informed circles at Singapore expressed belief the Japanese are not in position for an immediate attack upon Thailand.

But Reuters said the Japanese preparations nevertheless are well advanced and that with a few additional planes, more troops and naval units from Hainan Island "it would not take long to launch a combined air, naval and internal fifth-columnist blitz against Bangkok."

Length of his stay in the "Little White House" cottage on the side of Pine mountain will depend entirely on diplomatic word from Tokyo and military developments in the Thailand French Indo-China area.

The President said he hopes to remain in Warm Springs until Tuesday, but frankly admitted the explosive Japanese situation might hustle him back to Washington at any hour earlier.

To expedite his arrival at Warm Springs, the special train was terminating its run at Newnan, Ga., outside of Atlanta. From Newnan the Presidential party was motoring to the health foundation, saving an estimated hour in operating time.

holiday business for New Castle district this year. Most folks are inclined to pay more attention to the "shop early" idea this year, it seems.

Residents along East Grant street were aroused at an early hour this morning by the roar of the motor on a big conveyer truck, which evidently got lost and was attempting to get over the steep hill between Highland avenue and East street, and finally got stuck on the hill. Assistance was required to extricate it.

On the Diamond, the hundreds of birds who occupy the trees in the park, were again on hand with their continuous chatter Friday evening. Owen Fox, city forester, who is planning a method of dispersing them, was too busy with his other city work, to thus far attempt it, he says.

For the second morning in succession, downtown New Castle was enveloped in an exceedingly dense fog, or smog as some are wont to call it. Travel was difficult and traffic proceeded at a very slow pace.

Captured Reporters Problem To Nazis
(International News Service)

BERLIN, Nov. 29.—Appearance of American military observers and reporters on the battlefields of North Africa is "without precedent," a German military spokesman asserted today.

"Therefore," he said, "we do not at present know how the captured Americans will be treated."

He emphasized, however, that they must be treated as regular prisoners of war if they were wearing British uniforms when captured.

directly at the heart of the Axis forces commanded by Gen. Erwin Rommel west of Tobruk and Sidi Rezegh, the strategic pivotal key-point which the British Imperial forces seized earlier in the week.

As the combined New Zealand and British force advanced, all reports indicated the zero hour for a decisive clash was drawing near.

Editor's note: A Berlin radio broadcast picked up by NBC said "positions in the gigantic tank battle in Libya are apt to change very rapidly."

"While the British armored units have the advantage of moving more or less as a unit and in one direction, General Rommel has the difficult task of shifting his tanks very quickly from several points, which have little communication with each other, to new positions. In view of this strategic disadvantage, one cannot at present draw any final conclusion as to the final outcome of this great and violent battle."

Nazi Column Rolled Back
Meanwhile, the German column which had attacked earlier along the Egyptian frontier was reported to have been broken up and rolled back.

A military spokesman also said that virtually the entire Italian Bologna division which had covered the east end of the Tobruk perimeter had been eliminated. He said the British were forging ahead southeast of the port.

The British Mediterranean fleet simultaneously reported it has practically cut off all Axis communications by sea between Europe and north Africa.

Editor's note: The London Daily Mail reported from Madrid that as a result of "heavy pressure," French Chief of State Marshal Henri Philippe Petain accepted German demands for air bases at Toulon and Bizerte to enable the Nazis to reinforce their military forces in Tripoli.

The News Chronicle reported from Lisbon that the Germans are concentrating troops at Cagliari in Sardinia with the intention of landing them from Ankara aboard the Germans are embarking troops at Salonic, Brindisi and Naples to reinforce their African contingents.

RUSSIANS CLAIM GERMAN ADVANCE IS SLOWED DOWN

radio announced, Russian forces crossed the Don river and occupied a strategic key point from which they threatened to cut off German troops from their communication lines.

Advance Slowed Down
On the Volokolamsk sector outside Moscow, the radio announcer added, the enemy advance has been slowed down.

Editor's Note: The London Daily Mail said the Moscow radio broadcast a report that Russians attacking German positions at Rostov captured the old part of the town after a fierce fight.

"The London Daily Telegraph said German Gen. Von Bock was hurling tanks armed with long-range flame-throwers and 400 Stuka dive-bombers at Moscow's outer fortifications. This account said squadrons of heavy bombers were concentrating on railways east of the capital to prevent reinforcements from reaching Moscow's defenders."

The communist newspaper Pravda said the Germans have concentrated 49 divisions on the Moscow approaches, including four tanks, one SS and four infantry divisions northwest of the capital in the Solnechnyagorsk area.

Pierce fighting was reported raging around Ikin, Stalinokorsk and Volokolamsk on the Moscow defense arc.

Kill 2,000 Germans
Northwest of the capital a Russian tank brigade near Klin was reported to have destroyed 70 enemy tanks and 25 field guns and to have killed 2,000 Germans.

Pravda said the Red air force yesterday destroyed 55 tanks and 185 armored cars and wiped out an enemy regiment on the Moscow front.

On the Maloyaroslavets sector outside the capital, it was claimed, all German attacks were repelled. The Nazis kept hammering at the entire Moscow front, authorities said, but they indicated the tide of battle may be turning in favor of the Russians.

In the Crimea, however, it was conceded the situation had taken a worse turn for the Russians. There, according to the Moscow radio, the threat to the great Black Sea naval base of Sevastopol was growing, with more German forces moving up for a final assault.

Loss of Sevastopol would clear the way for Axis shipment of troops by sea to the Caucasus coast.

While the high command announced continued fighting on the entire front, it claimed the Nazis had suffered immense losses in planes and fighting material.

Berlin Report
Berlin, Nov. 29.—Capture of Volokolamsk, 22 miles northwest of Moscow, was announced by the Germans today.

Fall of strategic Volokolamsk opens a new avenue straight along an important rail line to Moscow, and serves partially to straighten out the German line—one salient of which has reached to Solnechnyagorsk, 40 miles northeast of the captured city.

Defeat of strong Russian counterattacks, particularly in the Moscow region, was announced by the German high command today.

A war communiqué said that on the Moscow front German forces yesterday pierced several Red army positions and destroyed 18 Russian tanks.

The Russians were declared to have lost 53 planes.

FOUR ANTI-STRIKE MEASURES READY FOR CONGRESSMEN

touching off the drive for anti-strike legislation in the senate during the "captive mine" coal strike, and Rep. Vinsion (D) Ga., who has been seeking strike legislation for months, returned to the house to action of labor committees.

The house labor committee, after months of inaction, reported a far-reaching bill, and a senate labor subcommittee also evolved a bill, with the full committee expected to approve it Monday.

Spaker Rayburn promised right-of-way in the house for legislation next week, with the Vinson bill scheduled to be offered under a long-existing special rule. Connally sought approval of senate leaders for commencement of debate on his bill Monday.

Four Measures
Congress has three bills before it: 1. Connally bill in senate, which widens power of president to seize strike-bound plants, "freezes" union and non-union relations during government control, and provides board to adjust wages. Reported by judiciary committee.

2. Senate labor subcommittee approved bill of Sen. Ball (R) Minn. It is modeled on the railway labor act, provides for a 30-day notice of desire of change in conditions, provides for voluntary mediation, action by national defense mediation board, and findings by a labor dispute commission. Permits labor to strike for renewal of a lost shop contract, but makes an employer subject to $1,000 to $10,000 fine if he signs a closed shop contract for the first time after a strike.

3. Rainsford bill reported by house labor committee, providing successive mediation steps. If mediation under the defense mediation board fails, the board can make recommendations and order conditions to remain unchanged for 60 days. If mediation finally fails, the president may seize the plant involved.

4. Vinson bill, which provides for 30-day "cooling off" period before strikes, "freezes" open and closed shop relations for the emergency and strengthens conciliation machinery.

Sen. Connally saw little hope in trying to set up additional conciliation machinery.

"They've been mediating and we still have strikes," he said. "We want something with teeth in it."

Rep. Smith (D) Va., leader in anti-strike legislation in the house, voiced contempt for the house labor committee bill.

"I'm going to do what I can to defeat this fake bill," he said. "It doesn't do anything more than we have now, and it gives the weak-kneed members a chance to say that they have voted to stop strikes."

man. Presidentially appointed Senate-confirmed board of review with power to veto any ceilings imposed by the administrator.

As passed, the bill would establish a price administrator at $10,000 a year, appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate.

The administrator, subject to overruling by the board of review, would be empowered to place ceilings on any industrial prices or rents in defense areas which he found to be inflationary.

He would not, however, be allowed to impose any ceilings on farm prices at below 110 per cent of parity, the prevailing price on October 1, or the 1919-1929 average, whichever of those three alternatives was highest.

In computing ceilings for industrial prices, the administrator is directed to give "due consideration" to the price of the commodity between October 1 and 15, but he is not bound to set them as of those dates.

If a person feels he is injured by any ceiling, he has a right to appeal to the board of review, and later, to the courts if the board does not grant his plea.

The bill sets forth maximum penalties of a $5,000 fine and two years in jail for violating the act.

down now, it is believed the Japanese may move into Thailand during the next few days. In that event, authoritative sources in Washington expect British forces in Malaya to cross the border into Thailand to check the Japanese. If that happens, it is believed a major conflict in the Pacific will soon develop.

However, there is a school of thought in official quarters here which believes Japan will back down and await more decisive developments in the Russo-German conflict before hitching its fate completely to the Axis star.

Meanwhile, it is now possible to discern some of the events which led to the consideration of a possible truce with Japan, and the dropping of the idea.

The proposal is understood to have originated in Japanese quarters. When it became apparent that no general understanding could be reached, the Japanese envoys, Saburo Kurosu and Ambassador Kichisaburo Nomura, suggested the possibility of a temporary arrangement to ease the tension between the two countries.

This proposal involved the relaxation for a limited period of the American economic embargo against Japan in return for assurances that the Nippon empire would refrain from any aggressive action in the northern or southern Pacific.

U. S. Cool On Proposal
American quarters are understood to have been cool toward the proposal. However, Secretary of State Cordell Hull presented it to the diplomatic representatives of Great Britain, Australia, the Netherlands and China last Saturday.

At that time, both Washington and London were deeply concerned over Vichy government's dismissal of General Maxime Weygand as commander in chief of French North Africa. It was not clear whether this meant that Vichy was about to turn over the French fleet and the French African bases to the Axis.

If such had been the case, the British were fearful they might have to recall some of their warships from the Mediterranean.

Singapore to the Mediterranean. During the week-end, the British advance in Libya also ran into difficulties. These two factors tended to encourage the British to support consideration of a truce with Japan.

By Tuesday, Britain, Australia and the Netherlands are understood to have been favorably disposed toward the idea of some temporary arrangement with Tokyo.

However, events occurred during the next 24 hours which made the American government change its mind. These appear to be, in their order of importance, as follows:

1. Definite information that Japan was massing troops in French Indo-China for an attack in Thailand, which Secretary Hull regarded as an act of bad faith on the part of Tokyo while the peace talks were going on.

2. Indications that public opinion in this country would regard the truce as appeasement of Japan at the expense of China.

3. Word that Vichy was not acquiescing completely to German demands, and that the British situation had improved.

4. An urgent appeal from China not to weaken the united front.

In view of these developments, it was decided to scrap the truce idea and seek a showdown with Japan on the basic principles involved in the exploratory talks.

attack on shipping also was intended to aid the British offensive in Libya, and it was recalled that earlier this week the British navy announced that "not one ton" of supplies had reached the Italians and Germans in North Africa since the British thrust began.

"The raid on Sicily was linked to recent reports that Germany has been massing planes there for possible service in Africa."

Numerous fires burst out in frequently-bombed Naples, the R. A. F. communiqué announced. The raid was carried out Thursday night.

TOWARD HEMISPHERE DEFENSE

THE new trade treaty entered into by Argentina and Brazil is of great economic importance to the two countries affected, as a step toward the elimination of all custom barriers between them. But the significance of the measure, and the meetings held by the two Foreign Ministers to negotiate it, go beyond that. Both statesmen, it may be noted, were careful to emphasize the treaty's importance from the standpoint of continental solidarity, points out the Philadelphia Inquirer. And any step in that direction is of utmost interest to the United States.

The closer Argentina and Brazil, and the little republic of Uruguay, nestling between them, get together on economic and military matters the more strongly are forged the links of hemispheric defense.

Brazil's Foreign Minister, Dr. Aranha, made use of his trip to Buenos Aires, not only to discuss customs treaties but to talk collaboration for defense. Argentina has been among the most laggard of the South American States in adopting practical measures to protect the continent from attack. The establishment of air and naval bases at strategic points, open to use by the United States forces in time of emergency, has been regarded with suspicion at Buenos Aires. Although Uruguay has shown willingness to permit such bases near the mouth of the River Plate, the antagonism of Argentina has held back the project.

Brazil, meanwhile, has gone along on the base proposal in such an enthusiastic fashion that a series of landing fields, tied together by military roads, is now being built in that highly vulnerable portion of its territory that bulges in the direction of West Africa.

Similar co-operation on the part of Argentina would be helpful in sealing the whole South Atlantic seaboard of the American continent to possible Axis attack.

Recent developments make such co-operation more likely. These include not only the revelations made by the republic's "Dies Committee" of subterranean Nazi activities but also economic measures taken to replace the European markets upon which Argentina had so heavily depended for its exports. A friendlier feeling toward the United States has been evidenced lately, and this cannot but be strengthened as Brazil and Argentina move closer toward defense collaboration.

GUNS FOR SHIPS

It will not be long until armed American merchantmen will be carrying munitions into English ports, this dispatch in putting the Neutrality Act repealer into effect being possible because for six months guns for many of these vessels have been prepared. The guns will be mounted two to each ship, one forward and one aft.

The cost of each gun is estimated to be $14,000 and its mounting and mechanism $18,000. The gun is housed in a thin metal turret capable of deflecting shell splinters and machine gun bullets, except those registering direct hits at close range.

Many of the guns for the protection of merchantmen are called dual-purpose guns—weapons that can be trained on both surface craft and airplanes. In cases where these modern guns are not available the older type of gun, which can be trained only on surface vessels, will be supplemented by machine gun batteries.

IT MAY BE YOUR LOSS

Another man's fire may be your loss. That may seem an exaggeration but it's easily proven. A fire, for instance, may destroy valuable taxable property in your town. Rebuilding may take many months, or the property may not be rebuilt at all. All other taxpayers, yourself included, must directly or indirectly make up for the loss of tax revenue.

A fire may destroy a factory. If you're an employee of that plant, you'll have to start looking for a job. If you're a business or professional man, your income may suffer because of the sudden and drastic cut in local purchasing power. Men who are thrown out of work can't pay their bills. This reduces their buying to a minimum.

Many cases are on record where a big fire has resulted in virtual exodus from communities. People move away, in search of jobs elsewhere, and they don't come back. Down go property values—up go taxes. Community progress may come to an end, and retrogression set in.

These little, commonplace illustrations show what fire means to you. It means destruction without recompense. An insurance policy, vital as it is, can't make up for lost jobs, lost taxes, lost opportunities. It can't bring back the important intangibles which fire destroys.

Is fire prevention worth while—and is it worth your while to do your bit to stop this ever-menacing destroyer of life and property? There's only one answer to that question—a decisive "Yes!"

ARCTIC BATTLEFIELDS

For thirty-odd years Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the iconoclast of polar exploration, has been preaching the doctrine of the "friendly" arctic, now, employing his alert for paradox in another direction, he turns to a demonstration of the arctic's potentialities as a field of battle.

Of course, we all knew, especially those of us who had ever inspected a terrestrial globe, that the shortest way to Siberia or China lies over the polar regions.

But it is a fact that for all but a few men of superior imagination it lay wholly in the realm of the abstract. Subconsciously we pigeon holed it in that compartment of the brain which is reserved for useless information; it did not occur to us that it might some day serve a practical purpose.

Yet, once it is pointed out to us, it becomes quite clear that the polar wastes, all but impassable to land and water craft, are ideal for air transport. Atmospheric conditions, particularly in winter, are relatively stable in comparison with those prevailing over continents and temperate oceans, while there is an abundance of safe landing places on the frozen lakes.

In pointing to these facts Stefansson in all probability is prophesying no very distant tomorrow; it is within the realm of the possible that before the present war is over air raids across the north pole will be as commonplace as bombing Turin from bases in England.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph.D.

RESPECT RIGHTS OF CHILDREN

You and I have police protection. Who is there to protect our children's property rights against the inroads of their parents? In theory we may be most considerate of our children's sense of ownership, but in practice we are apt to act as if they were our property. Our words and thoughts make of our children sacred trusts; our nervous systems make them chattels.

Some years ago while I was working in my garden, along came my youngest boy of five. "That's all right, daddy, you may use my rake. You don't need to ask me for it. Use it any time you like." Such was the lad's indirect rebuke to me. I had used his property without recognition of his ownership.

I was shocked at first by his remarks; then embarrassed by a sense of guilt. I had used his rake without even asking him for it, and only two days earlier I had refused his courteous request to use my shovel.

Apology to His Son

I apologized to the little fellow for my trespassing upon his rights. I thanked him for his generous permission, assuring him that I would take him at his word. I had supposed, of course, that I was always very careful to respect his rights; but here I stood condemned. When the postman brings a letter for your child, too young to read, do not open it. Hand it to the child, and if he wishes you to read it he will ask. Of course, you will not be so foolish as to open letters of your older children, nor intercept a conversation or a note, nor censor letters which your children write. You won't go through your adolescent youngster's purse and pockets, neither will you wear your son's cravat nor daughters' necklace without permission of the owner.

Apply Golden Rule

Act toward your children's possessions as you would have them act toward yours. Don't therefore, lend their toys or other property, and when the older child is away from home see that the younger child uses none of his things without having the older child's consent.

My special bulletin on "Honesty and Truthfulness" may be had by writing me at 235 E. 45th St., New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Do you advise that the parents should ask the child to name the kind of punishment this child should have?

A. No.

Are there more old people than there were 10 years ago?

A. Yes. In the last 10 years there was an increase of 35 per cent in the number of Americans 65 years of age or above, while the total population increased only seven per cent. In 1930 there were 6,633,805 persons 65 or over, and in 1940 there were 8,956,206.

One Man's Opinion

We resent the inference of Germany's Foreign Minister that we helped to start the war. We are a peace-loving people in the year before a presidential election.

When World War II started we were a busy little people, burning wheat, sticking pigs, softly humming "Franklin D. Roosevelt Jones," the hit song of the day. There was no place in our planned lives for a war.

The Home Owner's Loan Corporation had just taken over 39 per cent of the homes it previously saved, Tommy Cochran was strumming his banjo in the White House and Wen Willie was defending Commonwealth & Southern from its detractors.

Those were the happy, puttering little days when Philadelphia, Chicago, London, Berlin, Tokyo, Reykjavik and Paramaribo seemed far far away.

John Lewis was negotiating a coal contract that year. The heavy brow, the studied eloquence, the wide sombrero remain today on the strongest link with that dark past—the lush days of '39 when only one-third of the nation was troubled.

Thought for the day: it was fun while it lasted.

PIPPIGRAMS

by ERICH BRANDEIS

"Portraits Come to Life" was the topic of an afternoon at the exhibition held at the Portrait Painters' Cleaning House in New York.

A number of society women appeared in the costumes and head-dresses of the characters represented by the portraits and posed under them.

One of the ladies came as Mme. Hebuterne, Modigliani's portrait. Another was Andre' Derain's "Jeune Fille" and so on.

Everyone of the women was there as someone else. Most people go through life disguised as some one else.

They impersonate the "one-I'd-like-to-be." Why not try a new disguise some time. You'll be surprised how effective it will be. Dress and behave as "yourself."

The poor, having no credit, buy on the installment plan; the rich charge and pay some time next year, maybe.

The record tells the following: About 10 years ago, a mountain man who rarely, if ever, visited a town of any size, drove to Stateville with his son, traveling in a decrepit car that had seen much service. Climbing out of the car on one of the main streets, the old man appeared fascinated by the pavement. He scraped his feet on the hard surface, and turning to his son, remarked: "Wall, I don't blame 'em for building a town here. The ground is too darn hard to plow, anyhow."

TALKING SHOP

"My husband frequently takes me out to dinner, then meets a business friend and, much to my distress, spends most of his time talking shop. Of course, I realize that men must discuss business but he has to put up with it every time we go out."—Gabrielle.

Answer: It is, indeed, distressing to put on your best clothes and step out to one of the glamorous night spots with full intentions of having a wonderful time, only to have your hopes blasted by the appearance of a hatched on the golf course or in the grill room of the club. My advice to you is to learn something about your husband's business so that you may join in these discussions. Now for the other side of the question: It is very boring to be left silently out of a conversation—to sit silently and listen to something about which you know nothing. If you feel that "our husband embarrasses us by his too frequent and indiscriminate discussion of business, I think you are justified in reminding him of his neglect. Of course, you can rescue yourself by suggesting a remote spot where his friends will not be likely to find him.

Question: I am going to buy a new dining room rug. Please give me some constructive advice on how to select one.—H. W.

Answer: My first piece of advice is that you buy a rug of sturdy weave and fiber and one whose color and pattern are such that every infinitesimal spot will not stand out. The design should, of course, harmonize with your furnishings. It should be quiet and inconspicuous. Its shape should harmonize with the shape of the room, and it should be sufficiently large to escape being dropped out of place as chairs are moved toward and from the dining table. It should be of a texture not easily crushed and the knap should not be so thick that food particles will become lost in it.

British Strategy May Doom Mussolini
Italy May Be Knocked Clear Out Of War
Colonial Possessions: In Africa Gone

By CHARLES P. STEWART

(Central Press Columnist)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—From British activity in north and eastern Africa, where Benito Mussolini has been trying to build up a colonial empire, American strategical observers draw the conclusion that John Bull is concentrating upon a tremendous effort to knock Italy entirely out of the war, which naturally, if the plan succeeds, will be a resounding crack at Herr Hitler, too.

It's regarded as, perhaps, a pretty promising method of tackling the whole situation.

An offensive against the Nazis, on their own ground would be, it's recognized, exceedingly dangerous at the present stage of the game.

They seem, as yet, fairly solidly behind their Fuehrer, and presumably would fight for him for all they're worth just now. Among the Italians, however, there's a deal of discontent, from all accounts, with the pickle that Il Duce has involved 'em in, as allies of the Germans, whom, it's said, they hate like poison. It isn't a frame of mind calculated to make them stand their ground very well.

Accordingly their forces, away over in Africa, where they can't even get adequate supplies, due to British strength in the Mediterranean, ought to be comparatively easy to lick.

Licking 'em in that particular field won't have a direct effect on the main struggle, but it may have an indirect one that'll count like everything.

It'll tend to make Italians at home sorer than ever at Benito for leading them into a conflict that they didn't want to participate in, any of the time, with the resultant loss of their colonies and a lot of their sons' lives.

What May Happen
Benito doubtless is too thoroughly tangled in his bargain with Adolf to get out of it, but his home folk certainly can overthrow him, maybe bump him off, and whoever succeeds him will be very apt to chuck the Fascist tie-up with the Nazis into the discard.

In turn, it can't but be a bad for the Nazis morale to hear their Fascist partners quit on 'em.

Herr Hitler, of course, is trying to bolster up the Italians' African resistance. He's tolerably busy elsewhere, though. Furthermore, Africa's a most inconvenient locality for him to get much aid into. His flyers can do some damage, but the Italians evidently need more than that.

Comrade Stalin intimates that he'd rather have British smash the Fascist in Africa. It's understandable why he feels thus about it. The

BITTER PEACE

Oh, what a bitter peace it is when men must bow to might. When alien soldiers herd the folk and lock them up at night; And hostages are held to die should some stout heart rebel.

As men and women dwell with thought they do not dare to tell.

'Tis bitter peace the foe inflicts with gun and tank and plane. And who will doubt such cruel stuff soon leads to war again?

For all who once were free will not be patient long enchained. And night must keep a watchful eye lest greater might be gained.

The hostages in groups may die before the firing wall. But none to save his bit of life would trade the hopes of all. And dead men speak with countless tongues the creeds for which they die.

That never peace shall find the land where alien banners fly.

Labor's Price

IT IS NOT AS WASHINGTON, Nov. 29. House movement toward anti-strike legislation should be received with a certain degree of skepticism. For nearly eleven months the President has stood in the way of such legislation. Apparently, he has seen eye to eye with the labor bosses. Both he and they assumed the attitude that no legislation was needed.

THEY steadily held that attitude through a virulent epidemic of strikes which greatly retarded the defense effort but greatly enhanced the power of the unions. Now, after the spectacular threat of the coal strike, Mr. Roosevelt finds his Mediation Board destroyed by his labor friends and no agency left by which even gestures of settlement can be made. He finds also both Congress and the public stirred to a point where some action seems inevitable.

Accordingly, the White House conference, accordingly, the statements of all the Administration leaders who heretofore had made no move in that direction; accordingly, the New Deal spokesmen now say there must be a law. Of course there must be a law, and of course, with Mr. Roosevelt no longer antagonistic, there will be a law. The lineup for an anti-defense strike law is now practically perfect. A bill has been drawn.

BUT no one should be fooled by the present pleasing unity of purpose on this subject of the executive and legislative leaders into thinking that there has been a real change of heart in the White House. There has been no change. And a reversal of his support of anti-defense strike legislation, there will be no rift—not even a coolness—between Mr. Roosevelt and the labor bosses. The law, if and when passed, will not be a drastic law. There will be nothing harsh in its provisions.

Speaker Rayburn says that the President wants a "temperate" law. Apparently, this means a law which will not prevent labor from using the crisis to make demands but will prevent a cessation of work while they are in process of receiving all or part of what they ask.

IN brief, the law as it will be passed, will not be really objectionable to the labor leaders, though there is reason to believe that they will pretend it is. They will pretend that it is because they want a chance for acquiescence. If they are going to give up their defense strikes, they are going to be paid for it. At least, that is the view of those who are in best position to know the facts. The price is a much bigger share in Government defense planning and operation. They want more of that "coequal power" with industry that Mr. Roosevelt gave in his first Knudsen-Hillman defense setup.

Mr. Hillman is supposed to supply the "co" status with industry now on SPAB, but the labor bosses

A GOVERNMENT JANITOR.

The barber shop, where I am accustomed to go occasionally, was employing a young negro, as bootblack and general utility man around the shop. The other day when I visited the shop I saw a strange young man in the shop, occupied in the manner of the former employee.

I asked the barber: "What's become of Ahas (short for Ahasius rusi)?"

"Why," said the barber, "he passed a civil service examination recently and he is now employed by the United States government as janitor in one of their San Diego buildings, down by the harbor."

"What's his pay?" I asked.

"He gets $6.70 a day; works eight hours a day and five days a week; if he wants to he can work six days a week. His pay is more than I make in this barber shop, working fourteen hours a day, six days a week."

Now it is barely possible that the pay of Ahasius is the proper pay for janitors employed in great apartment houses in large cities, for such a janitor must be

The Great Game Of Politics

IT will involve a reshuffling of OPM, SPAB and other defense agencies. It will mark the fourth reorganization since the original setup. But when it is over there will be a good many more labor leaders around than before—and even more confusion. Mr. Hillman will have a lot of colleagues; labor will be entrenched with coequal power with industry over industry during the war. And it will be in excellent position to continue that power after the war. That is the way things look to the closer observers in and out of the Administration. That coequal representation in management is the real labor goal there is no doubt at all. Already the drive is on. The recent CIO convention by Mr. Philip Murray, the President's Janus-faced friend, who appealed to Mr. Roosevelt to "move closer to labor" and then proceeded to make a violent attack upon the $1-a-year industrialists who have been drafted into the defense organization.

REASONS for the belief that the drive of reorganization here suggested is coming are clear. First, there is no question but that the labor lobby is in a position to make the enactment of restrictive legislation, no matter how temperate. Second, the closer we get to the 1942 elections, the greater the political power of these lobbyists. Third, there is the closeness of the link between Mr. Roosevelt and the CIO. Almost as much as Mr. Lewis he is responsible for its growth. With his consent his name was used in all its early membership drives. It was his chief campaign contributor and strongest supporter. His wife is a member of a CIO affiliate.

THESE things strengthen the conviction that almost coincident with the enactment of a "temperate" strike-control law Mr. Roosevelt will move in the direction above indicated and in such a way as to make impossible any charge that he has "let labor down" or that this is no longer a labor Government. Indeed, it looks like a very good bargain for the union bosses. What they give up will not be much; what they get will be great. The prospect for industry is correspondingly depressing and those $1-a-year industrialists who have not found favor with the New Deal group seem scheduled for another pushing around—not to say, out.

SEVENTH WARD NEWS

Simple Rules For Efficient Mailing Are Outlined Here

Mail Early Is Most Important Item Listed By Post Office Department

Contemplating a greatly increased volume of mail for the rapidly approaching Christmas holiday season, Edwin McBride, superintendent of the Mahoningtown Post Office, today outlined a few simple rules for more efficient mailing.

Most important item of all is that Christmas mailing should be done early.

Other suggestions follow: All mail should be properly addressed, in ink or typewriting, without abbreviating name of town or state and the return address placed in the upper left-hand corner of the face of the letter or package.

Parcels packed in paste-board boxes should be over-wrapped in strong paper and tied with good twine. Names and addresses of destinations should be placed within parcels, also, to insure arrival in case wrapper and outside address are torn away.

Make sure that all first class matter is stamped before it is deposited in mail boxes. The weight of packages should be checked to see that they carry enough postage.

New Efforts To Prevent Strike

Representatives Of Railroads And Emergency Board Have Meeting Today

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Representatives of the nations main line railroads met today with President Roosevelt's emergency mediation board in a final effort to settle wage demands of 1,150,000 railroad employees. The board is to make a report to the White House on Monday.

Members of the presidential board and the operators will consider a compromise submitted yesterday by representatives of the operating and non-operating brotherhoods.

Charles M. Hay, counsel for the Big Five Brotherhood and Frank L. Mulholland, acting for the 14 non-operating unions have suggested that the board consider wage increases of $1 per day or 12 1/2 cents an hour. Hay and Mulholland said that their unions were not definitely committed to this proposition but that it might serve as a basis for negotiations leading to a settlement.

The operating groups originally asked an increase of 5 cents an hour and the other unions a 35 per cent boost.

The brotherhoods have set December 7 as the first day of a progressive walkout unless a settlement is reached.

See Severe Dislocations In Construction Industry During Coming Year In U.S.

By ARTHUR F. HERMANN
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The commerce department today forecast "severe dislocations" in the construction industry next year, featured by virtual cessation of residential building above the $6,000 class.

Department experts said it is quite possible that housing in defense areas in the $6,000 and under class will about equal 1941 totals but non-defense housing may decline as much as 80 or 90 per cent.

This type of residential building is expected to total about $1,800,000,000 for 1942 compared to an estimate of more than $3,000,000,000 for this year.

Difficulties in obtaining needed supplies of metal for residential construction was given as the main reason for the expected sharp dislocations, but the available supply of labor was also considered in the forecast.

Meanwhile, the report predicted that military and naval construction would increase further in 1942 topping the $1,850,000,000 spent this year. In spite of the winding up of the large cantonment construction program undertaken a year ago, government experts believe that the bulk of 1942 spending will again be for construction of such projects as barracks, air fields, hangars, and naval shore stations, with all necessary related facilities.

Factory construction, stimulated by the expending defense program, is expected to exceed the high levels reached this year. Although every effort will be made to utilize existing plants, the department states that it is difficult to see how industrial construction can fall much below the $1,600,000,000 being spent this year.

Small Contractor To Be Hit
Officials said that curtailments and dislocations in the construction industry will result in "some one being hurt." The hardest hit, it was said, will be the small local contractor who specializes in building better class residences. It was pointed out that the S. P. A. B. contemplates virtual elimination of this type of building, although the contractors involved can not readily find other uses for the equipment, personnel and talents.

The extent of the effect on building inherent in priorities orders on such metals and copper, steel and iron was graphically illustrated in the construction surveys. It was shown for instance, that the average residence requires 2.6 tons of iron and steel products.

Already, the department found, a greater than seasonal decline in construction is being witnessed in almost all sections of the country, attributable directly to government orders restricting the use of critical materials. The value of residential contracts awarded in September were 5 per cent above the corresponding month last year, but hotel and apartment awards fell far below 1940 levels.

U.S. Employers Who Resign To Give Aid To Firms Are Hit

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The administration today threw its weight behind proposals for legislation which would stop government employees from resigning their positions to represent private firms in the negotiation of national defense contracts.

President Roosevelt, at today's press conference, said both he and Attorney General Biddle are heartily in favor of some kind of legislation to halt this lobby practice, and added that a number of members of congress also were interested.

He suggested it might be a good idea to prohibit any government employee from appearing before a government department in a private capacity for a period of two years after the date of his retirement from federal service.

Such a rule now prevails in the treasury department, and the president recalled that it used to apply to the army and navy.

Philippine Head Blames Critics

Shifts Responsibility For Delay In Vital Defense Preparations On Islands

(Associated Press)

MANILA, Nov. 29.—Blame for delay in vital defense preparations throughout the Philippine Islands was laid at the door of his critics today by President Manuel Quezon of the Philippine commonwealth.

The delay, President Quezon declared in a radio speech, has left Filipinos unprepared in the event of a war outbreak in the Pacific.

President Quezon, re-elected to a second term earlier this month, deplored the fact that his critics had accused him of attempting to build a dictatorship.

Such a criticism, he said, prevented him from exercising emergency powers voted by the national assembly in 1940. Moreover, Quezon asserted, the hue and cry set up by his critics had so alarmed Washington that President Roosevelt had asked him not to use his emergency powers unless requested to do so by Francis B. Sayre, U. S. high commissioner to the Philippines.

TIRE AND WHEEL BALANCE

Owing to high operating speeds of the modern motor car, proper tire care has become a very important factor in the correct and safe performance of the automobile as the longevity of many moving parts on the car has been found to depend a great deal upon proper balance. So has correct tire performance become dependent upon balancing tires and wheels.

Smoke And Fog Blanket Pittsburgh

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 29.—Smog laid its smothering grip on downtown Pittsburgh for the second successive day this morning, snarling traffic and hampering thousands of Christmas shoppers who found visibility nil and breathing difficult.

The combination of smoke and fog which all day yesterday held over the sunlit and kept mid-city temperatures 12 degrees colder than those reported from suburbs, reduced visibility to but a few feet during the night.

Pittsburgh has an anti-smoke law intended to eliminate such conditions but regulations for the present affect only commercial users of coal. Householders, whose coal furnaces produce most of the city's smoke, won't be hit by the anti-smog campaign until 1943.

Live Stock Show Opens In Chicago

Greatest Farm Show On Earth Draws Throngs To Chicago

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—Chicagoans rubbed elbows with their country cousins, came to the city for the greatest show on and of the earth—the 42nd International Live Stock Exposition.

With them these farm men and women and boys and girls brought their choicest products, the prime samples of the herds and grain bins now called on to feed not only the United States but the democracies of the world, to vie for blue ribbons.

Almost 13,000 head of livestock were quartered in stalls and pens erected on the 20 acres of floor space of the International amphitheatre in readiness for the formal opening of the exhibition tomorrow.

And on the upper floors were more than 5,000 samples of hay, grain and small seeds, entered in the hay and grain show which has been held in conjunction with the livestock exposition for 22 years.

Feuds numerous as the kernels of grain on the upper floors of the amphitheatre—between Illinois, Indiana and Iowa farmers for the title of corn king now held by Charles Fisher of Shelbyville Ind.; between farmers of the plains states seeking to bring the titles of wheat king and oats king, won last year by Canadian exhibitors south of the border; and between groups of blue ribbon awarded the grand champion steer—an achievement dominated by 4-H club boys and girls in late years.

O. hand, too, were more than 600 blueblooms from the most noted stables of the country, hunters, jumpers and gaited horses entered in the horse show which will be a daily feature of the exposition, and draft horses no less blue-blooded than the prancing show horses because of the heavy toll they have been bred to do.

Baxter, Leasure Start Training

There'll Be No "Fancy Dan" Tactics Nor "Powder Puff" Blows

CHINAMAN TO BOX WARREN FLYWEIGHT

Everything points to intensive training for a pugilistic "war" to be staged here December 10, when those "friendly rivals," Russell Baxter and Les Leasure, middleweights, fight for the 160-pound championship of Lawrence county.

True, they are on speaking terms and converse pleasantly when they meet but the fact remains that when the bell rings for round one in the arena, no week from Wednesday "the chips will be down."

Baxter would like to box the ears off Leasure, then knocked him flat as a pan, ake hat while Leasure would enjoy nothing better than to hit the point of Baxter's chin and catapult him through the ropes for 10 seconds.

Russell represents the scientific and Leasure the slugger type. Baxter started out like a whirlwind scored a lot of victories then apparently lost some of his form; why, no one appears to know. He regained it recently.

At the time when Baxter was drifting backward along came Leasure with a rush and he battered every person placed in the ring with him which caused his fists to stock to soar upward.

Inasmuch as Baxter, when he was in first fight, boxed Leasure's ears, Tommy, Leasure mumbled: "He can do it again." After watching Leasure batter opponents, Mike Fazzione, Les' trainer, retorted: "He can't."

Fans Has Wish Granted
This difference in opinion permeated the ranks of fight fans and at the last traces in the arena many demanded that Baxter, show or be shown and the same be applied to Leasure.

So folks, both have hied into training. They'll train in different gyms. The best is on who ever wins will be acknowledged the best of Lawrence county middleweights.

Ever see a Chinaman fight here? Sure, you did. It was Long Sing Quo who boxed Roy Miner years ago. Well, folks, there's another coming. He is Yoo Fee of Youngstown and he will box Morris Harvey of Warren, Ohio, at 112.

And if one doubts the fighting ability of the Chinaman, all one needs do is to read the accounts of "what's going on in China." The Chinese are still fighting the Japs. But don't confuse things, this Harvey is an American.

Billy Reale, the slugger who once travelled behind a plow is going to find action, likewise Baby Leasure and arrangements are also under way to book a Westminster college student who likes to swing gloves.

Indications are the December 10 show will be the banner attraction of the pugilistic season and it may be fitting to wind up the season with a championship battle between two of the best "middles" in the tri-state, Leasure and Baxter.

POSEY HAS FIRE
Wyatt Posey, the senior tackle from Headland, Ala., has more fire than any member of the Georgia squad. Posey was a 168-pounder when he played freshman ball... and weighed only 178 when he opposed Clark Goff, Florida's 237-pounder, in 1939. Posey expects to go into the Army.

Jack Hurley of Chicago has launched a campaign to secure a fight for his colored knock'em cold, Lem Franklin versus Joe Louis. Ed. Bossick, Windber, has been named Muhlenberg football captain for 1942. Tom Harmon, former local star, now coach, may be called to the air service soon according to Selfridge field officers. Mello Bettina and Harry Bob, heavyweights, battle in Pittsburgh Monday.

College Stars Trip Oshkosh

National Basketball Champions Edged By Collegians 35 To 33 In Chicago

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—The college All-Stars today boasted their second successive victory over a professional basketball team as the result of their 35 to 33 triumph over the Oshkosh All-Stars, champions of the National Basketball league, in the 1941 college-professional classic at the Chicago stadium last night.

The Harlem Globe Trotters, another stellar pro outfit, was defeated by a college aggregation in last year's play.

A crowd of 21,800, the largest to witness a basketball game in the history of the sport, saw three sensational stars come out of the East to pace the collegians to victory last night. These stars, Morris Becker of Duquesne, Gus Broberg of Dartmouth and Jack Garfinkel of St. John's, displayed a brand of basketball that was a revelation to the Midwest, long known as the "cradle of basketball."

There were other basketball celebrities around, such as Gene Englund, of Wisconsin, Bob Dietz of Butler, Herman Schaefer of Indiana, and Hugh Ford of Oklahoma, but when the chips were down, it was the eastern trio that sparked the collegians to victory.

Furnace Five Is Reorganized

The Furnace Five basketball team will be back on the hardwood court this season, with another powerful club, it was announced today. The team won 25 and lost 10 games last season.

The team will have the following roster: Charles Scott, Jim Valentino, Cal Gardner, Tony Nene, Rudy Rubels, all members of the team last season, and in addition several well-known district stars who are now employed here will be with the team—Vincent Yankovick, of Butler, James "Jim" Finnegan, one of the best players ever turned out by Coach Emerick at East Brook.

Others who will play on the team are: Henry Seeth, of Ellwood City; John Memo, of Charleston, W. Va.; Walter Benkowski, of Ambridge; Nick Vargo, from Ben Franklin; Tony Verone, from Midland; Willie Rung and Irv Rubels.

Aetna Standard Of Ellwood Will Battle Gerson Big Five At Arena

New Castle basketball fans will see four fine teams in action at The Arena floor on the night of December 4. It was revealed today, the preliminary game to the Harlem Globe Trotters and St. Vitus game will send the Aetna Standard Big Five, of Ellwood City, into action against the Gerson Big Five, of New Castle.

The preliminary game will start at 7:45 o'clock. The main game will start about nine o'clock. The famous colored quintet will come here direct from Buffalo. The Globe Trotters hold the 1940-41 colored national championship, having defeated the New York Renaissance team in the title playoff.

Tourney Champions
The Gerson team will be made up of the Scorpions of last year, and will be coached by Fred McClure, of the Ben Franklin high faculty. The team started out this year as the Ray Fredericks Big Five, but Mr. Gerson has taken over the supervision of the team.

The following will make up the Gerson line-up, all of them six feet and over, with the exception of one or two: Eddie Nahas and Jimmy Dart, from the Slippery Rock team; Ray Fredericks, from the Westminster team; Joe Johnston, Dave "Bonehead" Greer, Al Christopher and Tom O'Neil, all from the New Castle high former teams, and Jack Hanna, from Shienango.

The Scorpions last spring won the class B championship in the annual city-county floor tourney.

Deer Season Opens Monday

Few, If Any Deer In Lawrence County, Game Protector States

SOME SMALL GAME ESCAPES HUNTERS

With the small game season closing today hunters will tonight and Sunday hie to the big woods in the hope of bringing down a male deer.

The season begins at 7 a. m. December 1 and ends December 13. Only one deer may be shot by any one hunter although six are allowed a hunting camp.

According to Game Protector Frank Coen there are very few, if any deer, left in Lawrence County, most of them having been shot off last season, and few have migrated to this section.

The small game season (ring-necks, grouse, squirrel and rabbits) was good this season, he declared. However, not all the ring-necks nor rabbits were disposed of.

The bear season ended November 22.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Short-enders with a chance to score these today are: Army... Oregon... S. M. U. ... Auburn... California... Holy Cross.

Paul (Yankee scout) Krichell says if baseball managers were as jittery as hockey managers they would have hundreds of men appearing on every club... which is no joke when you think that Jack Adams of the Detroit Red Wings already has used 30 men.

And the hockey season has just begun... He keeps calling 'em up and sending 'em back to the farm clubs... But the all-time record is 87 men on one club by the Boston Bruins in 1924.

And Les (Rangers) Patrick insists there is more whistle blowing in basketball than there is in hockey. "In fact," says Les, "I think the basketball referees break in the police whistle for the New York cops."

Lesnevich Injured
Light Heavyweight Champion Gus Lesnevich has his hand in a plaster cast as a result of breaking it on Tami Maurilio in winning the title.

Which reminds me that Hub Macey... a 20-year-old amateur with the New York Rovers... already has had his nose broken five times and has had 14 teeth knocked out and has had scores of surgical stitches... and if he lasts long enough at the ice game he'll probably surpass Ching Johnson and Eddie Shore... who knew more about stitches than a ladies sewing circle.

Add nice jobs... Bernie Flaherty... ex-Loyola back now playing pro football... spends the fall knocking down passes and the summer knocking down pass makers... He's a guard at a Hollywood studio through which pass the glamour girls.

SPORTS WORLD RAMBLINGS

Saturday sports cocktail:

Wampum high, 1940-41 toga winner of Section 20, will defend its laurel under adverse conditions. With the cage campaign rapidly approaching, the Cements won't have a home floor like the remaining loop members. Wampum's new auditorium, in the construction stage, will not be ready for occupancy for another several months.

The champs competed under the same handicap last season and pulled one for the books by copying the local title. Coach L. B. Hennor today stated that he'll probably employ the same system as last year using the Shelby auditorium in Ellwood City for practices as well as for regular league clashes.

Stationed in Camp Paraiso, Canal Zone, Private First Class Thorntor James Bruno, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bruno, 1213 South Mill street is now a full fledged mill singer. The south side athlete shows promise of developing into a crack pugilist. His latest venture in the ring was a two round kayo.

The Pittsburgh Steeler professional football team was a losing proposition again. The backers dropped about $8,000 during the past season. The United Service Organization received $18,200 as the proceeds from the exhibition golf match in Detroit between the Ryde Cup team and Bobby Jones' challengers, the committee was reported.

What about the selection of Lou Boudreau as manager of the Cleveland baseball club? While the move is unprecedented, we can't see anything wrong with it. The injection of younger blood into the managerial veins may produce a new sage in the national pastime. It should prove whether or not a man must prove in baseball years to guide a major league club.

Many of the county's most learned men of the game are shouting that the 24-year-old ex-Illinois athlete is too young to fulfill such a post. Why is he and how do these gents know? A great philosopher once said that age is never a true barometer of a person's knowledge. Secondly, give the kid a chance to prove whether or not he's capable of handling such a role.

All the way down the line, mature men of the game have had their chance. Many of them failed; many of them have succeeded. The baseball man of 25, 30 and even 35 hasn't had much opportunity to sit in the driver's seat. It's giving vout a deserving chance—one of the important items in every man's life.

Zale Defeats George Abrams

Captures Middleweight Championship In 15 Round Fight

By JACK SINGER
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—By hanging up his Christmas stockings early, truculent Tony Zale, barrel-bodied man of steel from Gary, Ind., who throws punches like Joe DiMaggio pegging to the infield, today is the world's first real undisputed middleweight champion since Mickey Walker relinquished the title in 1931.

By winning 11 of the 15 rounds form game Georgie Abrams, the sailor boy from the Jacksonville, Fla., naval training station, Zale, the N. B. A. champion, also earned the benediction of the New York boxing commission, and finally restored sanity to the middleweight division, which had been as scrambled as was Abrams' brains last night in Madison Square Garden.

Walker, the beloved old Rumson bulldog, sat at the ringside last night and saw Zale climb off the floor in the first round to vote Abrams the award for the "most valuable punching bag of the year."

Abrams Takes Beating
"He reminds me of Ace Hudkins," Walker observed, speaking of Zale, a former steelworker. "He's rugged, tireless, and a fine body puncher with very little boxing finesse."

Zale demonstrated that he is the most wicked body welter the manly art has witnessed in a generation. Abrams absolutely had no defense for the champion's pulverizing, looping rights to the ribs. By the ninth round, Abrams' left side resembled an old-fashioned California sunset.

Except for the first round, in which he floored Zale with a short left hook to the jaw for a nine-count, and the ninth in which the champion was swaying after colliding with a night cross, Abrams absorbed a merciless thrashing. In his dressing room after the bout, the navy boxing instructor admitted that he was lucky to escape a knock-out. The fight drew $23,854.000.

The fleet University of Minnesota captain was selected in a poll of sports writers and broadcasters and will receive the Heisman Memorial trophy, presented annually by the Downtown Athletic club of New York.

Smith received 554 votes for the honor, only nine more than Angelo Bertelli of Notre Dame.

Bill Prince, chairman of the committee in charge of the award, said the voting was closest in history of the Heisman trophy. Next in line were Frankie Albert of Stanford and Frank Sinkwich of Georgia.

Church League Games Monday

Three more games will be played on Monday night in the New Castle Church Basketball league at the "Y" court. The first game will send the St. George Greeks coached by "Manny" Othites after their first win, when they tangle with the Central Christians. The opening game will start at 7:45 o'clock.

In the second game the Central Presbyterians play the St. Marys, and the third game will find the Third U. P. battling the St. Vitus club.

NAVY'S BIG MEN
ANNAPOLIS — Bill Busik was Navy's big man all season long. In addition to running and kicking superbly, Busik specialized in tossing the air jammed pigskin.

SCORING FAMINE
DENVER — No less than five games were played in Denver university stadium this fall before any points were scored in the second half of play.

As for Benny Friedman any of the University of Michigan graduates around here will tell you that he is one of the all-time greats in American football. Benny was an unanimous choice for All-American honors in 1926. That was the year he and Oosterbaan had the Big Ten coaches running around in circles uttering low moaning cries. Friedman to Oosterbaan was a passing combination that carried Michigan to glory for two years.

Higgins was secured for the banquet through Captain Roger W. Rowland who was a friend of Higgins when they both were students in Penn State. Friedman was secured through the good offices of Marcus Feuchtwanger a friend of Mr. Friedman for many years.

It's a pair of all-star, All-American, Higgins and Friedman. Can't you picture now some of the football anecdotes the two of them will spin at the banquet for "Bride"? And confidentially 't would be a swell idea if you got your ticket now because they are going out like wheat down a chute.

Wampum Edges Alumni Quintet

The Wampum High basketball team, Section 20 champions last year began their 1941-42 season last night at Shelby road 23 to 21.

In the preliminary game the Wampum Junior Varsity defeated the Ben Franklin High Reserves 33 to 21. Looking best in the Craine spin at the banquet for "Bride" was the Wampum High team.

Wampus will play at Darlington next Tuesday and will meet Beaver at Shelby road in Ellwood City on next Friday night.

FAIR OR FOUL

By LAWTON CARVER
INS Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Assuming you are a follower of sports if you let yourself be caught reading this and assuming further that as a follower of sports you have a pretty good sense of values, I've got a question to ask. You are not expected to answer, of course, but you can just mull over it and perhaps, for the want of something better to do, start a family quarrel or a fist fight down in the corner tavern by bringing the same subject up and egging your listeners on.

Here it is: What was the best sports story of this year?

You don't have to be a sports writer to react to that. All you have to be is a reader of the sports pages and perhaps an occasional visitor to sports events. You may not even have to go that far.

Anyhow, this thing came up today when we all were sitting around staring at the ceiling in search of an idea in keeping with the best traditions of the sports writing business, when somebody brought up the subject.

Dodgers Were Hot
I thought the Brooklyn Dodgers' knock-down stretch drive to the pennant was just about No. 1, but somebody else said, no, Catcher Mickey Owens' failure to hold that third strike, enabling the Yankees to rally and win for a three games to one lead in the world series was tops. Then somebody else nollered a little louder with a nomination for Billy Conn's near victory and 13th round knockout by Joe Louis for the heavyweight championship.

The best sports story of the year should be one of these three, although you can get an argument on any one of them and on these:

The death of Lou Gehrig; Joe DiMaggio breaking the all time batting record; Ted Williams being the first batter in how many years to go above .400; Buddy Baer knocking Louis out of the ring in their heavyweight title match; Craig Wood, the hard luck man of golf for years and wearing bandages because of a severe back injury, winning the national open; Whirlaway joining the few thoroughbreds ever to win the triple crown; Alab, the $700 yearling becoming a wonder horse worth a fortune and outstanding candidate for the Kentucky Derby next year; Minnesota and its football record; and along the same line Notre Dame going through its first undefeated season since the last Rockne-coached team; Bobby Riggs and Frank Kovacs turning professional and thus becoming the first No. 1 and No. 2 man of amateur tennis ever to make the flop at the same time; Lou Boudreau, new manager of the Cleveland Indians, the youngest pilot in major league history.

Take Your Choice
So take your choice and star yourself a real good, old-fashioned brawl. Much depends on how you look at the story—the drama of it, how important the results may be, general interest in it, the setting and many other things.

To me, although I won't argue about it, the big story nationally was the Dodgers. The biggest single incident all year long was Mickey Owens' miff, and Billy Conn's fight with Louis can come along anywhere hereafter. Louis was expected to beat Conn, and the fact that he almost lost before doing it only forestalled temporarily the ultimate conclusion.

But the Dodgers weren't expected to win and their manner of doing it made a terrific story after all their years.

This Morning

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—The stock market dipped further into new low ground today, again dominated by the Japanese crisis.

The decline was the fifth in a row.

There was some support at the start, but recovery tendencies were limited.

Fractional losses ruled in most of the steels. Youngstown was a firm exception.

New lows were set by International Nickel, Air Reduction and Pennsylvania Railroad.

Chrysler and General Motors were fractionally lower and ruled among their lows for the year.

Dow Chemical was strong in an otherwise mixed market for chemical shares. General Electric and Westinghouse were down.

Aircraft shares were mixed, with Consolidated up on formal announcement of completion of the deal with Vultee. Oils did little on Price Czar Henderson's announcement "justifiable" price increases would be permitted. Glass shares were lower.

Hiram Walker was up a point, one of the few important gains. Farm implement shares were steady.

American Telephone slipped further, and rubber shares lost ground.

Bond prices were slightly easier. The curb market also continued easier although the general undertone was somewhat steeper than in the preceding decline of the three preceding sessions.

Bicycles Held Traffic Menace

Keystone Automobile Club Recommends Regulation To Curb Deaths

MANY KILLED AND INJURED IN STATE

(International News Service) PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29.—With an estimated 760,000 bicycles in use in Pennsylvania and the death toll rapidly rising, some answer must be found soon to the new traffic problems presented by the two-wheeled vehicles, according to the Keystone Automobile Club.

Reports to the club show that 43 bicyclists, mostly children, were killed and 1390 injured in Pennsylvania last year. The death list in 1940 was an increase of 250 per cent over the total in 1932—the first year in which cycle accidents were regarded as a serious highway menace.

"Safety engineers throughout the country are frankly puzzled and alarmed by the bicycle trend," said Edward P. Curran, Keystone safety director. "A resurgence of the bicycle's popularity has continued and figures indicate that since 1935 well over 1,000,000 have been manufactured."

"Widespread use of bicycles, not only in this state but in the country at large, definitely takes the 'bike' out of the rad classification and the problem which confronts the states is made more complex by the fact that the great majority of users are children."

"Some Pennsylvania cities and towns have undertaken to regulate the bicycle through local ordinances," continued Curran, "but the attempt is spotty and ineffective on the whole. The answer may be found in the state itself taking over the job, but we're not prepared to endorse any solution without serious and extended study."

The Girl Scout national organization has increased from 438,168 (including girl and adult members) to 682,892 in the past five years—an increase of 55.9 per cent.

W. Fulton Jackson Goes On Record For Christmas Seal Drive

War And Tuberculosis Are Branded As Partners By Local Defense Director

W. FULTON JACKSON

"The grim story of two allies, war and tuberculosis, may be read in the death rates of several European countries. Between 1914 and 1917, in the first World War, the death rate from the disease increased 21 per cent in Italy, 41 per cent in Germany and 69 per cent in Austria."

This pertinent observation was made today by Lieutenant Colonel W. Fulton Jackson, executive director, Lawrence County Defense Council, in discussing the relation of war and tuberculosis and continuing he said:

"In France, where the increase was only six per cent during these three years, the rate was so high in 1914 that any increase threw the menace of the disease into an acute national emergency. To cope with this situation, the Rockefeller Foundation in 1917 sent to France a special commission of American tuberculosis authorities to lay plans for controlling the disease."

"In the United States the deadly figure dropped in 1915 and 1916, but in 1917, the year we entered the war, the rate climbed back to the 1914 level and continued higher for several years."

"The sequel to this grim story has begun in Europe. Tuberculosis authorities, however, believe that in this country we need not see the old story re-told. More is known about the methods of prevention, diagnosis and treatment. We have a vast 'fortification' against the disease in the nearly 1,700 tuberculosis associations throughout the country."

"In this district, the Lawrence County Tuberculosis society, recognizing its opportunity and obligation, has intensified its efforts and is giving assistance in the health measures being carried out under the defense program."

"The Christmas Seal sale furnishes the funds for this organization, and the sale this year is more important to the community than ever before. The fight against tuberculosis is the people's fight for every person and every family is in danger while this preventable disease exists."

AROUND CITY HALL

Indications are there'll be a gnashing of teeth in the very near future because the council has instructed Harold Wood, attached to the city's roster to make an immediate investigation of signs (and there are hundreds of them here) and "see that those responsible for the erection of signs insure them. According to reports assistant to the city solicitor, Francis Morretti has provided Wood with a list of uninsured. In perusing the list this morning Wood stated that, some signs on which insurance is not carried, were erected as far back as 1928. The ordinance provides also that signs must be erected 12 feet above the sidewalk, be of material other than wood and that, none cover no more than four-fifths of the sidewalk."

There has been considerable said about streets being torn up this fall. However, there was no other course that could have been taken by the light and heat company. And council granted requests for excavations. Some of the service lines have been in use for many years. Leaks have developed and the company instead of "waiting to lock the door after the horse was stolen" is now arranging to prevent possible trouble later.

Finance Director James L. Fink today informed Mayor Charles B. Mayne and colleagues he is prepared to sit down with the officials and commence preparation of the 1942 appropriations for the operation of the city. He said that already tentative budgets had been submitted by some of the council. It is likely council will hold a get-together and discuss the budget Saturday morning.

East and Water streets are barricaded and no traffic is permitted to flow through because of repairs to pipe lines being made by the Manufacturers Light & Heat company. The company today was granted permission by council to begin excavating in North Mill street and Highland avenue next week. The company is replacing lines which leak.

New Castle Exchange club members will hold their dinner meeting in The Castleton Monday evening at 5:30 o'clock. Odey Foster, secretary, announced today.

Finnish Reply Unsatisfactory Declares Hull

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Secretary of State Cordell Hull charged that Finland is "fully cooperating with the Hitler forces" in the Nazi movement of invasion and conquest.

Hull made it plain that he considered the recent Finnish reply to the American note of warning as unsatisfactory. He described as "significant" the fact that the Finnish Foreign Minister had journeyed to Berlin to sign "with Hitler's puppet governments over Europe" the anti-comintern pact.

Hull declared that this pact is being used by Hitler "solely as an instrument to wage a war of conquest and domination against free peoples." The secretary resorted to the unusual procedure of issuing his remarks as a formal statement. As given out by the state department, the statement said:

"In response to inquiries as to developments in the Finnish situation, the secretary of state today stated that the Finnish note had been given careful consideration but that it had thrown no light upon the question uppermost in the minds of this government."

"That question is now far and to what extent the Finnish military policy is one of combined operations of the Germans and Finns vitally to injure Great Britain and her associates and to threaten the northern supply lines over which Russia is now receiving supplies and assistance from Great Britain and the United States to aid Russia in resisting the Hitler forces of invasion and conquest, and to what extent that Finnish policy is a menace to all American aims for self defense."

"The recent journey of the Finnish foreign minister to Berlin to join with Hitler's puppet governments over Europe in signing the 'anti-comintern pact,' used by Hitler solely as an instrument to wage a war of conquest and domination against free people, is highly significant and cannot be camouflaged or explained away by propaganda attacks on nations engaged in defending themselves."

Fine Men For Taking Honey

CLARION, Pa., Nov. 29.—Three Clarion county men discovered today that 60 pounds of honey can cost a lot of money, especially when it's taken from the sidewalls of a house. Lawrence Johnston, Roy M. Hook Mays, all of Knox, were sentenced by Judge Harry Rimer to pay fines totaling approximately $200 after they were found guilty of taking the honey from a vacant house owned by W. C. Buck, of Elk City.
